

Ready to ENGAGE your BRAIN ?

Hello...

Actica Consulting is an expanding Management and Technical Consultancy working on some of the most nationally critical Technology projects. We specialise in delivering complex projects to challenging timescales. Some of our customers include MOD, NHS, Fire Services, Police Forces and the MOJ.

Our focus on an organisation's people, processes and technology gives us a real edge. All of our consultants have a detailed and systematic approach to solving even the most difficult problems and we always keep the client at the heart of every engagement.

Our Management Consultancy work includes:

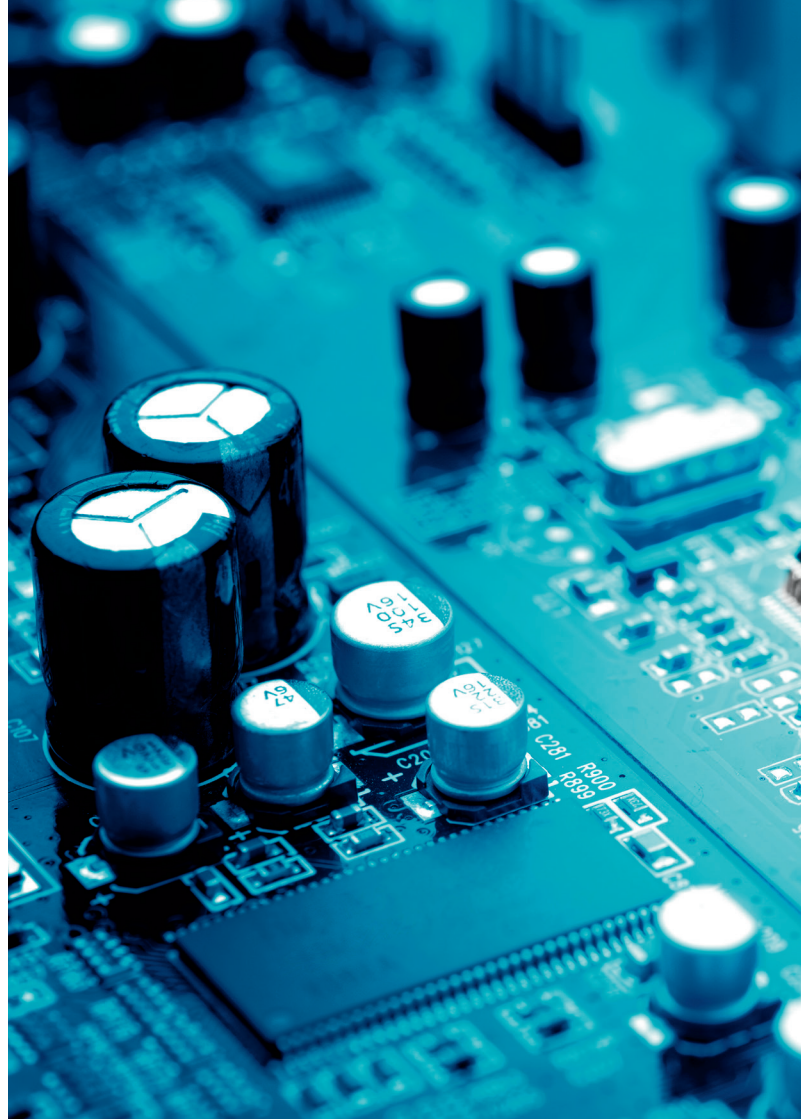

- Business Strategy & Change
- Project & Programme Management
- Managing Complex Procurements
- Investment Appraisals and Options Analysis

Our Technical Consultancy work includes:

- Enterprise & Technical Architecture Development
- Design Assurance
- Cyber Security
- Cloud Computing

Cyber Security for an MOD Intelligence Programme

Actica lead the Information Security development for an MOD Intelligence Programme. We secured a highly complex Intelligence, Surveillance, Targeting and Reconnaissance application so it could be delivered to two classified Defence Communications Infrastructures. Our work delivered Security Architectures and Designs as part of an MOD and Industry team.

Typical Projects

Strategic Advice for a Fire Service

Actica provided strategic advice and support for the procurement of a new fire service control room. We helped define the service's requirements for this future control room and delivered a procurement strategy to describe how it should be acquired. Working alongside the Fire Service we assisted with the contract tender, negotiation and evaluation process.

From the people who work here...

As I researched several of the larger consultancies I realised that being part of a huge tranche of new recruits wouldn't suit me. Actica provides the friendly and personal working environment I was looking for.

Nick, Consultant

Variety is the key: I've been with Actica for nearly eight years and during this time have worked on 30 projects for 17 different customers, ranging from a week to two years in length.

Mark, Principal Consultant

Throughout the recruitment process, I had been impressed with the people I'd met, and it was clear that I would be given a level of autonomy and accountability for my own work similar to that which I had experienced at University.

Rachel, Principal Consultant

When I joined Actica, I was assigned a mentor - Nicky - who was on hand to answer my (many) questions and it was really useful in helping me settle in. So I hope that in the next few years, I might be able to take on a mentor role and do the same for some of the new recruits too!

Mel, Senior Consultant

The work is challenging but fun; there is also a real sense of a family unit which ensures that everyone is treated fairly and that they are recognised and rewarded for their hard work.

Billy, Senior Consultant

Actica are looking for candidates with strong problem solving skills and an interest in technology.

We pride ourselves on giving high calibre candidates the chance to shine and so ambition, independence and willingness to learn are essential. This role will provide a fantastic springboard into a consulting career with client engagement and project work the norm from the start.

You will be capable of working on your own and within a team and be happy with a degree of travel throughout the UK for work.

We particularly welcome application from students studying for a Doctorate.

Candidates must have A Grades at A-Level with a 1st or 2:1 in a numerate degree at Masters level.

We do occasionally accept applications from exceptional candidates with an Undergraduate Masters degree.

You must also be willing to work in the area of national security, and hold or be able to acquire UK Security Clearance. Please be aware that this usually means that prospective candidates need to be a British Citizen
